Under Construction...

David Bennett

CAUTION TAPE, bright orange fencing, scaffolding, construction workers, and numerous distracting noises were a daily experience for the 1995-1996 ENC community. For upperclassmen, the sight of construction was nothing new. However, this year's activity proved to be more widespread and unmistakably obvious than that of previous years. Everyone on campus was affected due to the increased activity. From the completion of work which began during the summer, to the beginning of work set out to be completed in the future, ENC is certainly Under Construction!

David Bennett

As the construction taking place on campus is not as visible from this perspective, likewise many of the significant changes that take place in ours lives are not individually distinguishable either. Nevertheless when put into proper perspective, one sees how a small community in the outskirts of Boston, can stand out as being a place where the "Spirit makes the differENCe."

Canterbury Hall, home of the Division of Social Sciences, recieved a face-lift which included new carpeting and an improved color scheme.

A face-lift of the Gardner porticoe which began in the spring of 1995, concluded with the discovery of structural problems for which the remedy cost close to $200,000. Pictured here is the giant crane which spent a few days on campus removing the damaged sections of the structure.

The new entrance for East Elm Avenue took precedence as power lines were re-routed, trees removed, and construction was done on an elaborate brick and rought-iron gate.

The College Store dramatically improved its looks as a result of renovations by professional designers, Facilities Managment, and outside contractors this summer. Increased sales were experineced as a result of these efforts.

The tennis courts were completely reconstructed this summer making them "state of the art," according to the U. S. Tennis Association guidelines.

The Rainy Day

The day is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
The vine still clings to the mouldering wall,
But at every gust the dead leaves fall,
And the day is dark and dreary.

My life is cold, and dark, and dreary;
It rains, and the wind is never weary;
My thoughts still cling to the mouldering past,
But the hopes of youth fall thick in the blast,
And the days are dark and dreary.

Be still, sad heart! and cease ripining;
Behind the clouds is the sun still shining;
Thy fate is the common fate of all,
Into each life some rain must fall,
Some days must be dark and dreary.

Longfellow

During the college experience, our lives undergo their greatest construction. As freshmen we make the transition from adolescence to young adulthood. When we are sophomores we realize our responsibilities, and are in the midst of discovering who we are and what we want to be in life. Then we become juniors and we work harder than we ever have to bring ourselves closer to what at one point almost seemed an impossible task. As seniors, we become aware that it's once again time to move on. We are ready for the "real world", which is scary, yet at the same time, exciting.

Maria Marineau

Bonnie Lemon and Tobin Felter. ". . .and they lived happily ever after."

Shawn Nahass calls home during his first week at ENC. "Mom! I want to go home!"

Corey MacPherson gives his best shot at trying out for the Pantene shampoo commercial. "Don't hate me because I'm beautiful!"

ENC's Master Plan: Outlook for the Near Future

Article courtesy of Campus Camera
By Jessica Davey Staff Writer

ENC's campus will see major structural changes in what is called a "Master Plan" to be completed by the year 2000, said Ken Gorton, Vice President for Financial Affairs.

Recent work on the parking lot, tennis courts, the Gardner porticoe, and the front entrance are all part of a widesweeping plan to make dramatic improvements in the structure and function of the campus.

In the next four years the campus will see expansion of residence accommodations, an increase in parking space, a more functional Student Center, academic and structural expansions in the Natural Sciences, growth of the Fine Arts building, and the construction of a walking mall.

The program to expand is a "culmination of two years work and input from community, staff and students," which was approved in May by the Board of Trustees, Gorton said.

"It will be funded by a capital campaign and 'appropriate borrowings', he added. Immediate changes that will be seen on campus include the completion of the front gate. As part of phase one of the campus development, the new gate will function as an access for pedestrians and smaller emergency vehicles, and as a focal point of campus entrance. In addition, related work will be done which will solve drainage problems and improve sidewalk safety. Directories for easy access to various parts of the campus will also be installed just inside the new gate.

Phase two, beginning this spring, will bring the construction of an oval-shaped patio at the front entrance of Gardner, more than double the size of the existing one. Used for graduation ceremonies and other activities, it will also allow for increased traffic flow as the campus grows.

As the campus currently houses students to ninety percent occupancy, the new changes will allow more students to attend ENC. Gorton emphasizes that the work is "to create a new atmosphere" for students in order to promote academics. He hopes to increase both undergraduate and graduate enrollment and to "put more emphasis on disciplines that better prepare students to compete in the environment out there today."

ENC on Hancock St.?

By Courtney J Krul Staff Writer

ENC purchased three acres of Hancock property at an auction last July after the Board of Trustees approved the purchase in a Special Meeting held in Flushing, NY.

The purchase includes the Winfield House, The Egg and I diner, and the Presidents City Motel, formerly owned by the Strout family.

Purchased for $1.1 million, this property increases ENC property by 20 percent.

"This is an opportunity for us to interact with the community" said ENC President Dr. Kent Hill. "Whatever we put there we want to say to the community: ENC is a quality institution doing important things."

According to ENC Vice President of Financial Affairs Ken Gorton, the sight and use analysis of the property is undetermined. The property will be used to meet ENC's need as the school moves forward.

"The property was bought with long-term objectives in mind" said Gorton. "We want to make our facilities more available to those in need."

"We aren't as well known in the Quincy area as we'd like to be" said Gorton. "The location of the new property will allow the school to become more visible."

According to President Hill, no priorities have been set for the new property. Projects on the main campus are the priority at the present time.

ENC students have mixed thoughts about the purchase of the Hancock property. Many myths have been created about its future use such as senior housing, a Christian bookstore, a ballfield, and countless others.

Some ENC students, like junior Melissa Boop, feel positively about the purchase. Boop said, "It sounds like they got a good deal when they got it and I hope that each of us can benefit from it."

Other students, such as Junior Brian Jowder, do not feel so positively about the purchase. Jowder said, "I think there's a lot of work to be done on the main campus, such as in the dorms, before they go spending that kind of money off-campus."

President Hill said, "We don't feel pressured to do anything right now." Administration and Trustees will determine what needs on the main campus would require additional space.

Both Gorton and President Hill stressed that time is an important element. According to Gorton, it will be at least two years before the property will be used due to analysis, permits, fundraisers, and architectural development.

'For I know the plans I have for you,' declares the Lord, 'plans to prosper you and not to harm you, plans to give you a hope and a future.'

To the Student Body of Eastern Nazarene College:

The theme of the Nautilus this year is "Under Construction." Indeed, many of you carry memories of these past months and years of physical renovations here at Eastern Nazarene College:

- scaffolding in front of Gardner for several months
- the construction of the beautiful new brick gate
- a new radio broadcasting booth in the Mann Student Center
- many residence halls and rooms have been dramatically improved

We have a long way to go, but we are pleased about the mileposts we have already passed while you have been with us.

But "Under Construction" at ENC has much more to do with minds and souls than it does bricks and mortar. All of us — students, faculty, administration, and staff — are part of an educational community which seeks to build and nurture the life of the mind and the depth of the soul. You have all had opportunities to learn during the 1995-96 school year, and we trust that the atmosphere and programs on campus have facilitated spiritual maturation as well.

In reflecting on what I might share with you the words of Moses to the people of Israel as recorded in Deuteronomy 30:19-20 came to mind.

> This day I call heaven and earth as witnesses against you that I have set before you life and death, blessings and curses. Now choose life, so that you and your children may live and that you may love the Lord your God, listen to his voice, and hold fast to him.

I covet for each of you life and meaning, but you must "choose life." Only you can embrace all that God and life has to offer. Grace is that divine gift of life and the ability to cope which can turn your tragedies and challenges into survival and victories. But grace is a gift you can refuse to receive.

Many of you we will see again as you continue your educational journey with us. But for you seniors, this academic year marks the end of your time with us. Congratulations and may God richly bless you and your families in the days ahead. We look forward to continuing a close relationship with you as alumni.

At Eastern Nazarene College we have tried very hard to model the joy of learning, and to call you to service of God and your neighbor. May your memories of ENC be full of joy and a sense of growth, and may your memories spur you on evermore to choose God, for there is no other way to "choose life."

In Dedication to...

It is my pleasure as editor of the 1996 Nautilus to dedicate the yearbook to someone who has devoted a significant part of his life to Eastern Nazarene College! As you will see in the written accounts, Ken Sullivan was a remarkable man whose exemplarly life overcame many obstacles. Although most present students did not know Ken, his presence on this campus and the imprints he has left on so many in this community have been significant. This dedication is one way that we, the 1996 student body can recognize the life of Ken Sullivan and his dedication to Eastern Nazarene College.

Kenneth E. Sullivan ~ 1916-1996

What more can a child of God seek than the things that our God has already provided in love.
We are at the banquet table of God and the feast can never be exhausted until our weary feet stand on Heaven's side of the river.
For this love we thank you, God.

Remarks Delivered at the Appreciation Gathering for Ken Sullivan

By, Cliff Hersey October 11, 1995

In 1957, Ken Sullivan, while pastoring the Providence First Church of the Nazarene, suffered a severe heart attack and was forced to resign the pastorate.

Without work and with three young boys and a spouse to care for, Ken accepted an offer from Dr. Ed Mann to come to ENC to help develop something out of the old print shop. He said to Ken: "If you can make a dollar for yourself, give it a try." In most people's minds, and probably in Ken's as well, he was simply "marking time" until his inevitable demise from heart disease. That was 38 years ago.

When he finally arrived at ENC he found piles of type, broken type boxes, two old Gordon presses and an $8.00 war surplus offset press housed in the depressing, gray, stone basement of Canterbury Hall. It is significant that Ken has managed to adapt with the technology of printing in going from laying cold type to computer disk in one half of a lifetime. He didn't balk a bit when in his sixties, as he was forced to embrace and learn the transfer of the technology to computer operations.

In the years that followed, Ken went to work organizing and printing as much work as he could find from both the college, and from surrounding churches in the district. For many years, the ENC Press as he called it, handled the printing of church bulletins, district newsletters, and stationary as well as many printing needs of the college.

By the 1960's the operation had grown to include three offset presses, two letter presses, and a complete mailing service which took up the entire Canterbury basement, and provided regular employment for 10 ENC students.

When I assumed the position of Publication Director in 1990 and developed a close relationship with Ken, we talked about what contributions he could make to the campus, and what position he might occupy in the Publications Department. He said to me several times that it didn't matter what position I moved him to, because he had been fired at least once by every president since Dr. Mann, and he would survive!

The first of those times was after Dr. Mann's retirement when a new administration decided in their infinite wisdom that all of the college printing requirements could be met by the new technology of "mimeographing," and Ken and his staff were laid off.

Not to be discouraged, Ken, in his gracious way, accepted the obviously flawed decision, and bought the entire operation which he moved to Maine. Out of that move he started a new company called "Western Maine Graphics." (This company is now a large publishing enterprise in Maine) Very shortly after his departure, the administration, realizing its huge error, asked Ken to consider returning to ENC to handle the printing, mimeographing and mailing operations which were, by this time, completely out of control. So he rescued the college once again, even though doing so now required frequent trips to Maine to keep the flow of printing going as the demands increased.

After another change in presidents, Ken ceased, once again. to be a formal employee of the college. He was, however, asked to continue to handle the printing and mailing work of the college on a contractual basis, and to continue using the Canterbury basement as a convenient base of operations. He accepted.

As the volume of work increased with both college work and local contracts, Ken developed business interest which eventually was sold, and became the foundation for The Ink Spot, a firm with which we all are familiar. Ken continued to have

Through the years I have had contact with those who are merely names to many today, but who were the great ones on which our heritage was built.

I saw Eastern Nazarene College adjust and survive with the passing of stalwarts such as Dr., Fred Shield, R. Wayne Gardner, Edith Cove, Esther Williamson, Dr. J. Glen Gould, Vernor Babcock, and others. I marvelled that there were replacements found to cover the service they so gallantly performed.

But a crisis like the present dilemma has never hit our campus before. Over the years I have been fired by presidents only to be recalled to bring back the institution from the perils of despair. I can only hope that the portals will not swing shut, but in some acceptable fashion will find the genius for survival in my absence.

In all seriousness I appreciate the place that Eastern Nazarene College has given to me and my family over the years. It has been a good home.

I have had the greatest confidence in her leadership and know that our Alma Mater is in good hands under the present administration. I am confident that we who have played out our little part can know that significant replacements are out there to improve on what we have failed to accomplish.

Thank you and God bless you all. Kenneth E. Sullivan

a consulting and sales relationship with the Ink Spot for another five years. During this time he also faced down his first bout with cancer, which through radiation treatment, and much prayer, subsided for another ten years.

When Dr. Cecil Paul became president of ENC in 1990, his vision included the creation of the Office of Institutional Advancement, which included under its wings the development of an entity which would handle all publications for the college. I was asked to head this effort in publications, but Dr. Paul. knowing my obvious inexperience, asked me to buy back the ENC Press, and create a significant place for Ken Sullivan-and to lean on him strongly. I Did. - We all did.

I can only tell you that in my professional experience with Ken, I never found one who marked out his territory, or refused an assignment, or let a spelling error slip through. He has worked full-time for part time pay, and only occasionally grumbled (and then only to me.) He has been in these last five years, -as he has moved from writing, to layout, to church relations-a brother-confessor to me, and an inspiration to us all.

He has been, in his words, "marking time" since 1957 and in the mean time has made a great impact on this community and on the denomination through his writings:

Heritage Day

CELEBRATION resonated from the walls of the Wollaston church during the annual event of Heritage day. Named Eastern Nazarene College Day last year by Mayor James Sheets, October 17,now holds significance in the lives of faculty, staff, and students.

The A Capella chior leads the worship service in song.

Nancy Detweiler and Barbara Faulkner sing the opening Hynm

"I now leave not knowing when, or whether ever, I may return, with a task before me greater than that which rested upon me (at EXC). Without the assistance of that Divine Being who ever attended (me), I cannot succeed. With that assistance I cannot fail. Trusting in Him who can go with me and remain with you and be everywhere for good, let us confidently hope that all will yet be well. To His care commending you, as I hope in your prayers you will commend me, I bid you an affectionate farewell. Amen."

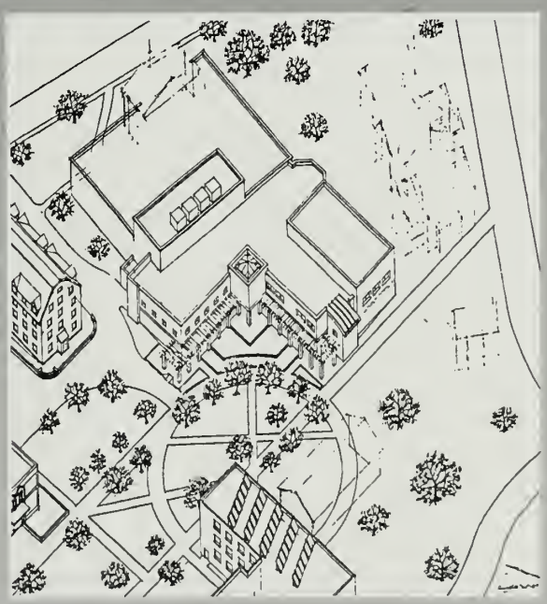
Who's Who

Among Students In American Universities and Colleges

CAMPUS NOMINATING COMMITTEES AND EDITORS OF THE ANNUAL DIRECTORY HAVE INCLUDED THE NAMES OF THESE STUDENTS BASED ON THEIR ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT, SERVICES TO THE COMMUNITY, LEADERSHIP IN EXTRACURRICULAR ACTIVITIES AND POTENTIAL FOR CONTINUED SUCCESS. THEY JOIN AN ELITE GROUP OF STUDENTS FROM MORE THAN 1,800 INSTITUTIONS OF HIGHER LEARNING IN ALL 50 STATES, THE DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA AND SEVERAL FOREIGN NATIONS. OUTSTANDING STUDENTS HAVE BEEN HONORED IN THE ANNUAL DIRECTORY SINCE IT WAS FIRST PUBLISHED IN 1934.



UNDER CONSTRUCTION...

ENC is sometimes criticized for being in its own little world, not like the real world. I chose to come to ENC because I wanted to experience college in a Christian environment, having gone to a public high school (in addition to ENC's proximity to major shopping districts). I have an appreciation for the type of life-style that ENC embraces, the values it seeks to instill, and the honesty in which my professors have not only imparted knowledge but have sought truth. At risk of sounding cliche, I really want to thank my professors for their guidance-- both personal and academic, my parents and sisters for their support and friendship, and my friends for being exactly who they are. My relationships with these people have truly enriched my life. I want to leave you with this saying that I've remembered since Dr. Hall shared it with us in my freshman chemistry class: (my memory (or lack thereof) requires that I do not reveal the author's name...)

"I sought my soul but my soul I could not see;
I sought my God, but my God eluded me;
I sought my brother, and I found all three."

May we each strive to seek out our brothers.

My years at ENC have been among the most enriching in my life. They have taught me self-sufficiency, independence, and a healthy respect for the ideas and ideals of others. I have also come to more fully understand and gain confidence in my ability to succeed in my chosen field of endeavor. Prof. Mike Holt has been of special help to me in this regard, and I would like to thank him for all the work that he has done on my behalf in helping me to realize my full potential. He has been a bulwark of stability for me as I have sought direction in the competitive field of business. I would also like to thank Joe Goulart for the many lessons that he imparted to me from his experience, and the many laughs he gave me along the way.

Finally, I would like to thank Dr. Ruth Cameron, my English advisor, for being there with me from the beginning. I have often taken comfort from the fact that she was there to offer help and advice to me whenever I needed it, and ENC will always be just a little less than complete without her here. I wish her and Jim all the best.

In these four years at E.N.C., my family, friends and, of course, God have all contributed to "making" me into the person I am today. If God somehow informed me during high school that I would attend E.N.C. (and like it), I would have told Him "Pshaa!" However, I was reminded when the time came to choose a college that God's will didn't always agree with mine. In addition to leading me to E.N.C., He provided me with a sense of direction and purpose. I am grateful for the friendships that have developed and I will always cherish the memories of late night theological conversations, pranks, fire drills, ~~delicious meals at Rick's place~~, ski trips, camping trips, and spring breaks. I am forever indebted to my parents (1) for conceiving me, (2) for the continual support and encouragement, (3) for being sterling models of genuine Christian commitment. Special thanks to my family (Mom, Dad, Heather, Jeremy, Linnea, and Rusty-God bless his soul), Amy, my roommate (Greg), my friends, and the professors who invested so much of their lives in E.N.C. and its students.

Surviving through four years of college is certainly a memorable event in my life, but what made my academic trip so worthwhile was all of the people who either led, followed, or simply walked beside me throughout my years here at the Naz. First and formost, I thank Prof. Shetler not only for his model of impeccable musicianship, but also his example if intergrity, humility, and leadership over the past four years. I must also thank Steve Emery, one of the finest trumpet players worldwide (yes, worldwide!), for giving shape to many of my dreams and helping me to see them from "the eagle's point of view". You both have been and will always continue to be an inspiration to me. To the most patient, devoted, and loving parents anyone could ask for, I love you very much. To my mano, DPS, obrigado por vinte anos (e muitos mais) de amizada. Amo-te, irmao. To my other brother, Luke HW Sheets, may Steven someday have the honor of opening for one of your concerts. Thanks for letting me keep a glimpse of your vision of freedom. To Dot Buhl, four long years in Cove and you still talk to me!?! Thank you for the genuineness of your friendship. Much appreciated and never forgotten. I also realize that my life is for naught without the help of my Lord and Savior Jesus Christ and I give Him all the praise and glory for this four-year gift He have me.

Nora Delgado

My years at ENC have challenged me both spiritually and academically. There have been times of great joy as well as great struggles, both of which have caused immense growth. I could never have made it through without the support of close friends and my family. Thanks for being there, even at midnight, to help me keep my head straight. I know I am blessed to have attended a college where the faculty and staff take a personal interest in the students lives. Special thanks to Dr. Goodman and Dr. and Mrs. Giberson. I also want to thank those I worked with in the Registrar's office, especially Joyce and Tim who were lucky enough to get to listen to my opinions about everything and anything. It has been a privilege to study, work and live in an environment centered around God. As I reach the end of this stage of my life, a fundamental realization that will continue to shape my decisions can be best expressed by a quote from Charles Swindoll: "life is ten percent what happens to me and ninety percent of how I react to it."

Tammy Fortmann

Perhaps the most important lessons I have gleaned from four years at ENC are knowledge in that most worthy of all subjects, Biology, and how to think and to dream. I owe debts of gratitude to many people for cultivating these: Dr. Shea, Dr. McLaren, and Dr. Frederich, and then Dr. McCormick, Dr. Yerxa, Dr. Giberson, and my good friend Denise Chew. I find it difficult to explain the importance of thinking and dreaming, and so I borrow liberally from, Tennyson's Ulysses to illustrate

Valerie S. Benamore

"I cannot rest from travel; I will drink Life to the lees"
"I am part of all that I have met, Yet all experience is an arch wherethro' Gleams the untravell'd world, whose margin fades for ever and for ever when I move. How dull it is to pause, to make an end, to rust unburnish'd, not to shine in use! As tho' to breathe were life. Life piled on life Were all too little"
"Come, my friends, 'Tis not too late to seek a newer world"
"That which we are; One equal temper of heroic hearts, Made weak by time and fate, but rong in will to strive, to seek, to find, and not to yield."

The beautiful memory of the flourishing, blooming cherry tree of Spring 1992 still exists freshly in my mind. In a second, I am about to see its fourth blooming. Four years of Christian liberal arts college education at ENC not only helped me improve my English dramatically, learn more knowledge about Chemistry and Biology, but also broaden my worldview by a variety of core courses, and equip me to be a more prepared Christian. I really love and appreciate every faculty, staff and classmate of this friendly community who helped me in various ways. Special thanks to Dr. Hall, Dr. Stark, Dr. Frederich, Dr. Shaw and Dr. Free, who had been wonderful scientist and professors, dedicated Christians, and humorous, encouraging friends. Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Stark, Mrs. Terttu Savoie who had witnessed my struggles, tears, frustration and may still have a memory of a young Chinese girl starting here with a repeatedly "Pardon me?" and a puzzled face. Thanks for you maternal love, comfort and encouragement. Thanks Mr. Gerry Wood for being an administrator who helped me to come to ENC an was a friendly neighbor to my family. Thanks to the considerate and humorous library employers. Thanks to the Chaplaincy staf who made chapel one of my most joyful experiences in ENC. Thanks Dr. and Mrs. Reed who "adopted" and took care of me since m parents went back to China. Also thanks to my many classmates who helped me and struggled with me I am so sorry that I did not do as good as I should, but I thank God who brought me here and offered me this opportunity to lear and grow. Thanks to my beloved ENC

Julie Zhang

Most of my life has been a search for truth. I believe, ENC has taught me the truth is never separate from people but always part of relationships. These are some of the "truths" I have become acquainted with in my time here.

Christina Cochwanatner

*Holiness: Dr. McCormick, your classes, your prayers and your life have taught me so much about holiness. Thanks for challenging me to think about God in new ways.

*Peace: Brenda and Laurie Braaten, you have been family for me and made me feel safe and cared for. Thanks for your unlimited hospitality, friendship, and constructive criticism.

*Hope: Esther, you were the first to welcome me here. Thanks for all you love and support. Larry, you have given me so much of your time, love, and humor. Thanks for believing in me, encouraging me, and helping me to have faith.

*Love: Bethel Church of the Nazarene, you have been the most supportive and loving Church family possible. Thanks for giving me an experience of worship and of the holy body of Christ.

"Who is there that, in logical words, can express the effect music has on us? A kind of inarticulate unfathomable speech, which leads us for moments gaze into that." -Thomas Carlyle

In my four years here at ENC I can say that my education has echoed Carlyle's statement. God had been so faithful, and I count it a privilege to use my musical talents for Him. Nothing has shaped my experience more than A Cappella. It is my prayer as I leave this place that I will have such an opportunity to sing for my Savior in the future.

Dorothy Burk

I find difficulty imagining what next fall will be like without ENC. Often this year I have wondered what I will bring with me when I leave and what will stay behind. Never again will I live on fourth floor Munro (my roommate has humored my need for a good view for three years now), edit another paper in the Center for Academic Services, have meaningful conversations in the dorm hallways, or take another class from any of my favorite professors. There are so many "never agains" that I fear if I dwell on them for too long I will become sentimental. So I wonder, what will I take with me?

Kara Gonannon

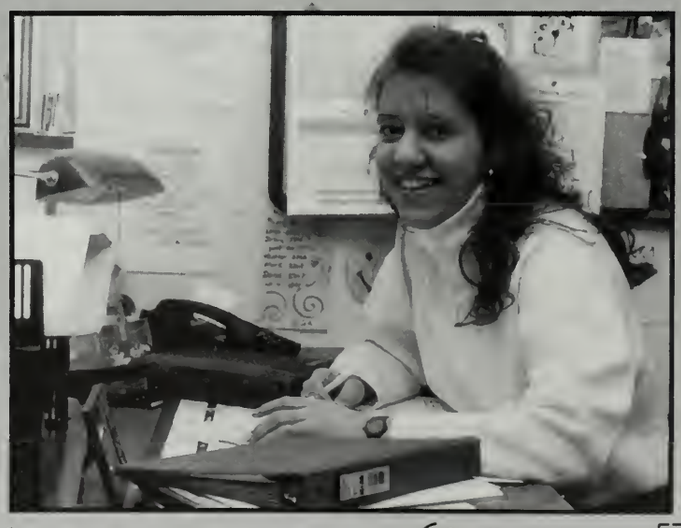
My friends have given me volumes of memories, a finer appreciation for coffee, and lessons in sensitivity. My professors have taught me not only many theorems and lemmas, but also to reach beyond my limits. They have challenged and shaped me both intellectually and spiritually. My college has taught me that standing firm in my Christian battle between dark night and blessed morning. Nor does it mean ignorantly holding on to beliefs cheaply won. One must steadfastly search for hard earned truths.

It has been a privilege to study at ENC under professors who have continually challenged me to broaden my mind and grow in my faith. I am thankful for my friends who have been so understanding about my limited time and always remind me to keep having fun. My parents and brothers deserve a special word of gratitude for their unending love, support, and encouragement. Your sacrifices have not gone unnoticed and are very much appreciated. Finally I must praise God, for without His grace and strength I would not have made it to this point. His goodness and blessings in my life are overwhelming, so may I never forget that, "from everyone who has given so much, much will be demanded; and from the one who has been entrusted with much, much more will be asked."

Rachel Bromley

I can't believe how fast the past four years have gone by. My decision to attend E.N.C. was one of the hardest decisions I've ever has to make. I put all my trust and faith in God and He didn't let me down. I came to E.N.C. a quiet, scared, and very shy freshman, and now four years later I'm leaving a confident, outgoing, Christian women ready to take on new challenges. I've grown as an individual over the past four years because of the constant support of my friends, family, professors, and God. I thank God for the incredible friends I've made during my college career. They have become my family, and have always been there to laugh with, to cry with, and to pray with. I am grateful to Randall King who saw the talent in me and pushed me to pursue my dreams. I'm also grateful to Cliff Hersey, an incredible professor and friend, who has encouraged me, challenged me and motivated me to strive for excellence. I also want to thank my parents who have supported me in all my activities at ENC. I never would have made it here without them! Finally, I thank God for his unconditional love and all of the wonderful opportunities He's provided for me here. It's hard for me to leave the place I've come to call home and all the wonderful memories I have of my time at ENC, but once again I have put my faith in God because He will never let me down. ENC will always have a special place in my heart.

Leigh Kiellberg



As I look back over the path I have traveled during my journey here at ENC, I realize that I could never have done it alone. So many people have helped to shape who I am. To Ronda: Thanks for taking a chance with me. You've sculpted my future into a dream of acting. To my friends: Thanks for staying with me through everything these four years have me. In you guys I've learned the ability to care. To Mom and Dad: Thank you for always believing and trusting. You've taught me how to stretch my wings. And, most of all, to Jesus: Through you I've learned how to soar to the heights of my dreams. I love you all

Carla Bonne

Eastern Nazarene College has taught me real good! I can count nice now but also I can talk smarter and I even learned how to lift weights! Now I'm gonna go get a job and be an asset to a company, and I will be a tribute to my school, who I'm proud to call my Almond Water. I hope I make the Good Doctors Free and Gibbers, and my steamed mentor Fishbreath very proud. Also hopefully, I'll get a nice car and an affordable wife too! I just hope I don't forget too much during the summer.

Nitwittingly Yours,

Jonathan Stewart

My time at ENC has been positive proof of God's faithfulness to me in my life. As a Freshman, I didn't imagine that I could ever receive an honor such as this. I am so thankful for what the ENC experience has developed in me over the past four years. I have been challenged in so many ways and have grown so much as a result. I can only hope that future life experiences will compare to my years at ENC.

"Now to him who is able to do immeasurably more than all we ask or imagine, according to his power that is at work within us, to him be the glory in the church and in Jesus Christ throughout all generations, for ever and ever! Amen." -Ephesians 3:20-21

Did you hear about the banana?
Once she left the bunch, she got skinned.

Sheri Tanner shared this thought with me from God's Little Instruction Book. Leaving ENC in a few weeks reminded me of it. I'm going to miss all the late night coffee talks, visits to Cape Cod, and living way up on 4th Mondo. Thanks to Mel, I still managed to get all my work done (even if it was done by pulling all nighters!) But, ENC provided me with a great Social Work education - just ask my roommate Kara who deserves an honorary degree - so hopefully I won't get skinned too badly. Overall, its been a great four years that I won't forget.

Senior Retreat

The annual senior retreat was held at Camp Taconic on May 18-19. Sponsored by the senior clas, all seniors were invited and Dr. Hill and Dr. Roberts (Class Advisor) came along to help lead group meetings. Overall, the weekend helped bring closure our experiences over the past four years.

The weekend began with an opening meeting with the opportunity for reflection and sharing followed by a game session which included Sarah Daniels' release of "ENCopoly." Other activities included a softball game, bonfire, painting with Blanche, ping pong, pool, and boating. The culmination of the weekend was a worship service Sunday morning led by Dr. Roberts. Many thanks go to Dr. Hill and Dr. Roberts for coming along and sharing their lives and wisdom with us as we head into the future!

"The Cross and the Towel"

"If you have the courage to do so, you will walk away from this campus with a wonderfully-educated mind coupled with the spirit of Christlike humility. If you will do so, you will move from these halls into the last three and one half years of this millennium with refined social skills plus a growing conviction to serve, not to be served. If you will do so, you will enter this society that many refer to as "lost and confused" not only with the gifted abilities to reason, discern, and make wise judgements but also motivated by a heart that authentically loves, cares, and has compassion on the human beings whom God will intentionally bring into your life. . . Jesus demonstrated that type of leadership by taking up the towel. Now it is your turn and mine. . . You will find your towel at the foot of the cross of Jesus Christ!

Our first year here at ENC has proved to be a great one! We survived the freshmen jokes, upperclassmen pranks, and worst of all, curfew. Despite these things, our transition to college life was characterized by both excitement and anticipation. We took part in such activities as a pool party, a campus clean-up, and a trip to the Old Spaghetti Factory. The Freshman class also sponsored two very successful blood drives for the American Red Cross. We have settled into life at ENC very comfortably. Hopefully, we have an even better year to look forward to as sophomores!

Friendships do not grow up in any carefully tended and contemplated fashion. They begin haphazard. As we look back on the first time we saw our friends we find that generally our original impression was curiously astray. We have worked along beside them—and suddenly we awoke to realize what had happened. We had, without knowing it, gained a new friend.

Somehow, these thoughts by Christopher Morley, written way back in 1927, sum up the experience of our freshman year, in 1996.

What aspects of our new lives in college have not in some way been influenced by the relationships and friendships that have evolved in the past nine months? As students, we have been introduced to an entirely fresh side of education; our professors teach with more detail than in high school, they are far more spiritual than their secular peers, and they show more caring than is imaginable in a college setting. As roommates and dorm-mates and lunch-buddies and lab partners, we have again found ourselves establishing new relationships and friendships that may never have occurred a year ago. And as members of a new community away from home, we have branched out into local ministries, churches, and groups that have tested our faith and tried our committments.

In a matter of only a few months, the freshman class has discovered many, many new individuals. These "haphazard" relationships, which began with, "Hi!" "What's your major?" and "Where you from?" are solidifying into true friendships. So, with Christopher Morely, we can say that somewhere between the runs to CVS, trips into Boston, inspiring chapels, and school activities, "in some curious way the unseen border line has been passed"; we are friends.

Well we've survived another year. We are no longer underclassmen and to be politically correct, underclass women. Wow, how time flies when you're having fun. I think we have matured since our days as little freshmen running around like we owned this place (What were we thinking!).

It was a good year for our class council. We continued the tradition of freshman breakout, which was noted as being one of the best ever. We successfully crowned yet another Mr. ENC, and even tried some new ideas such as our trip to see the Red Sox. It was a relatively good time despite getting beer spilled all over some of us.

As a council we did our best through our busy schedules and numerous outside activities to represent the class well and provide it with fun and enriching activities and events. Together we worked hard and often carried each other on our backs. We have a great class and have much to look forward to in the years to come. Before you know it, it will be all over. Make the best of each day. May the class of '98 live life to the fullest. God bless

Bob Johnston, President

I've been here almost two years, but with all the memories I have built, it seems like I have been here half of my life. This year has been especially exciting. I have learned so much, done so much, and seen so much, it is difficult to take in all the exciting events and get it processed. God has taught me how to find peace among all the business of college life and I feel that that has changed me the most. The students are GREAT and so are the professors. I have also learned to take advantage of all the wonderful opportunities on campus. What would I have done this year without A Capella and the Ski Club? The best advice I can give anyone that feels like they're out of place or do not belong is to GET INVOLVED! There is so much to do and so many wonderful people to meet—take advantage of the opportunities ENC has to offer. I am looking forward to two more years of fun-filled and spirit-filled times. I can't wait to see what happens with Social Life next year (Yikes!)

JUNIORS

Now that our journey through college is almost complete the memories of our college experience stand out vividly. Working on the junior class council has produced a variety of awesom memories that my council and I will never forget. The greatest thing about working on the junio council is all of the support that we receive from our fellow classmates. Without such a wonderful junio class our council would never have made it through the year.

Being a member of the junior council is an incredible responsibility. This year our counci planned and supervised one of the most fantastic Jr./Sr. banquets ever. Not only did we have to pla the Jr./Sr. banquet, we also were required to carry out the same duties as all of the other class councils We did go through a lot of adversity and stress but the Jr./Sr. was worth every minute of the hard worl that we all put in for it. Every week we continually thanked the Lord for his work in our council, fo he definitely was and is the center of the Junior Class!

"Let no man despise thy youth; but be thou an example of the believers, in word, in conversation, in charity, in spirit, in faith, in purity." - 1 Timothy 4:12

There's a knock at the door...I open it...Oh no, it's those girls again, insisting that they are my friends (they really are but that's besides the point), telling me to buy a pizza to support my class. Every once in a while they even get me to buy one out of pity for their cause...

The poor Junior class council, so many responsibilities, so little time, or so it seems. I think that has been my biggest issue being in college. Time. You enter as freshmen feeling as if you have your whole life ahead of you. Then somewhere along the way you start to wonder where your life has gone. College begins to sweep by in a blur becoming locked in that chamber we label 'memories.'

Why does this happen? I think that it is because these are indeed the best years of our lives and like all good things they fly by. You go to bed one night a freshman, and wake up the next day a junior. I thank God that I have been fortunate enough to come to a Christian college that is so close-knit; it is like being with family (God's Family). It is this family that has made my three years here an unforgettable experience that I wish could last forever!!

The opening of the '95-'96 volleyball season saw the Crusaders get off to a slow 1-8 start. However, after a great deal of hard work, effort, and support, they finished the regular season 21-9.

The turning point of the season came at the Salem State Tournament. After going 4-0, they faced a well skilled Gordon team in the finals. Although the Crusaders played hard, they ended up with the runner up trophy. But from this Tourney, they came together as a team and believed they could win.

This never-say-die attitude brought them through tough matches against teams such as a strong U/Mass-Lowell team, Babson (even though an injury to a key player occurred) and a talented Bridgewater squad. This enabled them to win the first official Commonwealth Coast Conference Tournament.

As a result of their consistent play over the second half of the season, the Crusaders were selected to the ECAC Tournament for only the second time in ENC's history that an team has been selected. Although they lost to the eventual tourney champ Wellesley, they gained valuable post-season experience.

Senior captain Anne Hassinger led this years women tennis team in a variety of ways. Anne has been four-year starter on the varsity squad, moving fro the sixth singles position as a freshman to the fi singles position as a senior. Her steady improveme as a competitive tennis player and role model for h teammates makes her the 1995 Most Valuable Play

Sophia Rutledge, a versatile athlete, played in t second singles position with commitment a determination. She has another year of eligibility a will be an integral part of next years squad.

Senior Tynna Forsman was a pleasant a unexpected surprise addition to the team. With limit tennis experience she advanced to the third singl position within a few weeks and had several importa wins for ENC.

Junior Susan Sherrick, hampered by inopportu injuries, saw limited service at the third and four singles positions. Her athletic ability and winnir attitude will be assets for next year's campaign.

The first year players rounding out the squad a sophomore Marcy Morrison, and freshmen Li Hughes, Betsy Milne and Karen Brooks.

Freshman Karen Brooks, playing in the six singles position had the highest winning percenta for the season, wining a total of ten matches th included both singles and doubles play. She is t Most Improved Player f 1995.

Although the seas record was just belo 500, the future loo brighter with t addition of sever promisin underclassmen and t added attraction of fr new state-of-the-a tennis courts.

Cross Country

The NCAA Div. III Northeast Regional Championships capped an exciting season for the Men's and Women's Cross Country teams.

The women ran strong and improved consistently throughout the season. Junior, Rachelle Leger led the women's team by finishing high in each meet and capturing the CCC Invitational Individual title. Melissa Ladd, Kerri Schopp, Jennifer Witherow and senior April Slater made up the women's team.

The Men's Team ran competitively all season with many close finishes against rivals Gordon College and Mass. Maritime Academy. The Men's team finished 2nd in the CCC Invitational by only one single point. Ed Gardner led the men with many impressive races including a win at the ENC Homecoming meet and had his second straight victory at the CCC Invitational. The performances of Hamilton Paul, Doug Gallagher, Chad Bell, Jeremy Fox, David Dumire, D.J. Jardine and Jason McCabe led the Crusaders to another successful season.

The Lady Crusaders may not have had winning season or a 500 record but the did have the best record since 1984. This something to be excited about since all b one of the players are returning. They wi be losing Tammy Swartzlander who is leavin some big shoes to fill at starting point guar Tammy was #2 in the conference for assist #3 in the conference for 3-pointers, and w named to the All-Conference 2nd team. C captain "JJ" Jones, along side Sophie Rutledg really grew into dominant forces inside Sophie was the #3 rebounder in the CC Incoming freshman Kelli Leete, who was or of two freshmen chosen for the All- Conferen 2nd team, was 6th in the conference f scoring, and led the Crusaders in scorin steals, and blocked shots. Another freshma player with a lot of potenial was Wend Young, who was #2 for the Crusaders i scoring, blocked shots, free throws, and ranke #9 in the conference for 3's. Kelly Talbot w yet another freshman who was recognize by the conference. She was 3rd in th conference for foul shots. Coach Dyment very optimistic aobut the future of th Crusaders and is looking forward to a CC title. "We have turned the page for EN women's basketball. Knowing you can pla any team, no matter who they are or whe they are ranked, is a great place to be."

ENC's Men's Basketball team capped off th 1995-96 season with a 19-8 record and trip to the ECAC tournament. The ECAC pos season birth was the first in history of th Men's Basketball program. The Crusader were ranked as high as number six amon NCAA Division III schools in New England Once again defense was the key for the men basketball program. ENC led th Commonwealth Coast Conference in fewes points allowed (68ppg) and field goa percentage defense allowing opponents t shoot only 42.6% from the field. The tean also had the highest scoring margin in th conference, winning by an average margin o 11.2 ppg.

The leadership of upperclassmen was quit apparent on the Crusaders team this year First team All-Commonwealth Coas Conference selections Dave and Jay Hepburn finished first and second in points, steals, an assists. Jeff Jones was the team leader i rebounds. With the potential to return 1 players for next year, ENC Crusader Basketbal should again add to its rich basketball tradition 1996 will be remembered as a year of milestones for the ENC Crusader Baseball team. Heading into their final 2 games, the Crusaders had already broken the school record for wins in a season, had finished higher in the regular season conference standings than ever before, and were in a position to finish with the first back to back winning records since 1970-1971.

On the field, the Crusaders were led by First Team All Conference catcher Scott Madden. Scott batted over .400 in the season and was the team's field general behind the plate. Junior shortstop Jeremy Anderson led the Crusaders in home runs while batting over .300 and was named Second Team All Conference. Sophomore Matt Lantier was also selected to the All Conference Second Team. Matt batted over .300 and led the starting pitchers in E.R.A. and wins. The dedication and commitment of Mike DeLuise and Tobin Felter will be sorely missed next season/ Not only have Mike and Tobin shown tremendous ability on the baseball diamond, but have displayed the attitude and class that Eastern Nazarene College can be proud of.

The 1995-96 Crusader Softball team opened the season with a double header win over Emerson College and a late season victory over Emmanuel College. Rookie Katie Brenton handled most of the pitching duties improving with each outing. She also saw time at third and led the team in walks. Catcher Amy Minzner did a good job behind the plate and threw out her share of runners. Kelly Allen led the team in put outs at first base. She was also a good bunter and one of the top hitters. Second base and shortstop duties were shared by Doreen Nash and Jahnna Washburn. Doreen led the team in homeruns, one of which was a grandslam while Jahnna contributed with a number of assists. Kelly Talbot played a strong third base and saw some time on the mound. Her quick hands stopped many a line drive. She also had the highest batting average and most RBIs. Kelli Leete used her speed in left field as well as the outfielders in put outs. Captain Colleen Gallagher played a strong center field, led the team in doubles and triples, and was second on the team in stolen bases and batting average. Joy Phillips made some timely catches in right field while also being among the top hitters. Rookie Kelly Richardson played second base, right field, and did some relief pitching. Her mound appearances kept us in some games while her speed was a plus in the outfield. Kelly Hooper improved greatly as the season progressed. She became a proficient bunter and made a positive contribution in right field. Although this team did not have many wins, they hit a number of doubles and more home runs than were hit in the last two years combined.

With a solid 6 and 4 season, the 1996 men's Tennis Team became the winningest team in ENC tennis history. Led by Jeff Kelley's 8-2 record at the first singles position, players all up and down the lineup played solid winning tennis. Jeff Butterworth who played well at second singles throughout the season was the first ENC tennis player to win his fight at the Commonwealth Coast Conference Tournament. Kelley and Butterworth also combined to form a dominant first doubles team. Seniors Matt Burnside and Fred Schnepel capped off excellent tennis careers at ENC by coming through with winning records at the third and fourth singles positions and had an excellent winning percentage at second doubles. Jeremy Trowsdale won a number of clutch matches at the fifth position. Krikorian's leadership, excitement, and love of tennis was much appreciated by the players and coach alike. The depth of the team was impressive. Joe Eynon worked his way into the lineup on a number of occasions and played some strong singles and doubles matches. Doug Chapman, Derek Culbertson, and Justin Vallese each contributed by providing some exciting doubles wins and some excellent tennis. With so much talent remaining, the outlook for more winning seasons looks very good.

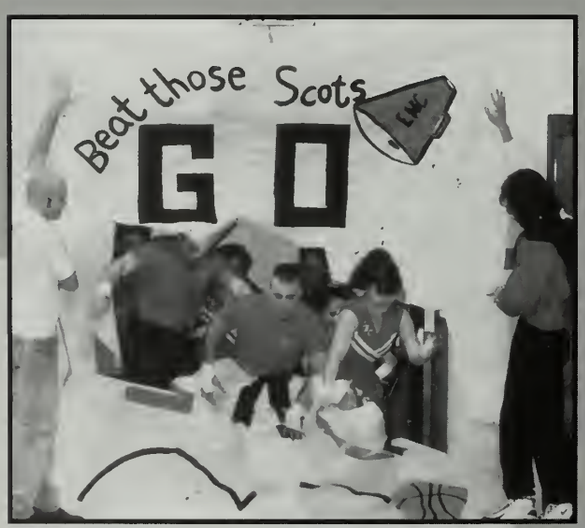
CHEERLEADING

Craig Randall,Jonathan Gessner,Steve Sarney,David Scalera,Rebecca Hamon, Angela Palanza, Becky Jolicoeur, Miosotis Martinez, Kelly Jardine, Verity-Ann Neal
Coach Tim Ebo, Ass Coach: Michelle Fleece



The '95 Cheerleaders can be ranked as one of the most talented squads to cheer at Eastern Nazarene College despite the fact that over half of the members were first year participants. Their athletic ability, motivation and team spirit made it possible to entertain the fans with new stunts and fun routines. They showed a tremendous gift of adapting to unexpected changes and rising to the challenge that those changes presented. The "never say die" attitude of the squad pushed them to higher levels of difficulty in the pyramids and enabled them to execute some of the more challenging partner stunts as well.

The coaching staff was supplemented this year with the addition of two assistant coaches. Both were instrumental in music selection and choreography for the routines and, by serving as spotters, also provided a safer environment during games and practices.

Overall, the season will be remembered as one of fulfilled expectations, enthusiasm and fun.

Clubs & Organizations

The Clubs and Organizations at ENC offer a variety of opportunities for students to minister and fellowship with each other and the community. The many ministries offer students a chance to use their talents for God's glory. This year has seen the beginning of some new ministries while the older ones continue to build their foundations by adding new members. The societies at ENC offer students the chance to fellowship with each other through intramural sports competitions and activities. There are also sports clubs including women's soccer and men's lacrosse. Also, the many academic clubs, such as Psi Chi and the Chemistry Club offer students the chance to spend time with those of the same major. These clubs often hold game nights, pizza parties, and field trips for their members. Most importantly, the Clubs and Organizations at ENC give students the chance to create friendships that will last four years and beyond. -Heather Olin

Delta

Delta has had a fun and exciting year in all the society events and activities that we have participated in. Delta's success has come from all the people on Delta showing up and having a lot of fun playing. These people all showed up because the female and male sports coordinators, Courtney Krul and Rusty Brooks do such a great job getting people to come out and play. Our secretary, Renee Pomerville, needs to be thanked for all the good work she has done keeping track of all the meetings. Last but not least, I would like to thank Allison Heizer for all her help this year as Vice-President. She has done a great job keeping track of all our money and coming up with ideas for different events. I would just like to thank my council for all they have done, and I hope that everyone enjoyed the year they had with Delta. - Scott Madden

Overall, it was a great year for the Gators, and I want to thank my council, as well as all the others on the sociey who helped out with all the events and sports. Nursing Home Ministry

The Nursing Home Ministry meets every Wednesday night to visit the elderly people at the Presidential Convalescent Home. Christina Gschwandtner and Margaret Smisko were the ministry directors for first semester, and then Jessica Sousa and Amy Travaline became the directors for the second semester. This ministry has been growing this past year as students participate and realize how much they impact the lives of others. Most of the people in the nursing home no longer have visitors, and their days consist of the same activities with little or no variety. They know, however, that Wednesday night is ENC night, and they continually look forward to seeing young faces who will sing, read the Bible, and pray for them. What an incredible opportunity we have to share the love of God in a very real way with people who feel like they are forgotten!

Children's Ministry

The theme for Children's Ministry is love, for one another and for God. Christina Hamel is the director. The group has weekly meetings and travels to different churches on the weekends. At these churches the ministry team performs puppet and clown skits, sings songs, tells stories, plays games, and makes crafts with the children. This growing ministry is a great joy for all who are a part of it. We have a great time ministering to the kids and leaving them with a piece of God's love. As Jesus said in Matthew 19:14, "Let the little children come to me, and do not hinder them, for the kingdom of heaven belongs to such as these."

KID'S CLUB

Kids' Club is a ministry through the Bethel Church of the Nazarene that serves the children of Germantown between the grades of kindergarten and fifth grade. The kids are bussed to the church every Wednesday night for a time of tremendous fun with games, crafts, snacks, stories, and songs. God has blessed us with an incredibly faithful, committed, and consistent staff who have been able to develop special relationships with the children while participating in the activities with them and demonstrating the love of God to them. These kids have unbelievable potential, and it has been our privilege to be a part of encouraging them as well as teaching them about the awesome God we serve.

SOCIAL LIFE COUNCIL

Social Life Year Review - The 1995-1996 Social Life Council was able accomplish a great deal this school term. Kicking the year off, a cl fair allowed students to see all the possibilites for involvement at ENC, alternative four band concert jammed away in the Student Cent Auditorium, and the annual Harbor Cruise allowed everyone to meet ne faces and get caught up with old faces. Homecoming was the next b event on campus and semesters included the Christmas Banquet, Cupi Corner, a Giant Easter Egg Scramble, Spring Fever Weekend, and Concer Speaker by Brennan Manning and Harod & Funk.

Along with the events planned through SGA, the class councils, AV & AMS, and other organizations on campus other events were al coordianated throughout the year. The Social Life Council was pleas with the enthusiasm during the events and feel as if the year was a tr success in going the 'Long Distance' and providing the student body wi opportunities to have a great social life! -Heather Long

A.M.S.

A.M.S. is an all-male organization whose main goal has been to promote unity in the lives of male residents. New programs that have begun this year are the Wednesay morning prayer breakfast (held weekly) and can and bottle recycling in the male dorms. The breakfast has served as a time of fellowship and prayer, and also a time to grow together spiritually as guys. Can and bottle recycling helps fund differen A.M.S. activities such as Paintball and Gotcha. Our new name is Brothers In Christ (BIC). We hope to continue with similar themes next year. - Jeff Turner

ACCOUNTABILITY REVIEWBOARD

For a number of years the Accountability Review Board (ARB) has played an important role in ENC's Student Government. As part of the "checks and balances" of the Student Government Association, ARB reviews the councils for classes, societies, men's and women's associations, as well as the SGA executive cabinet. This year's board has worked to continue its intended purpose. Two representatives from each class served as ARB members. They were Kevin Crizer and Christy Lamb for the Freshman class, Erin Hitchcock and Susan Soares for the Sophomore class, Paul Bowen and Paul Ragland for the Junior class, and Becky Crespo and Paul O'Connor for the Senior class. They all did a great job deciding the best course of action for each situation we encountered. I appreciate the commitment and effort that each one put in to make sure the job was done right.

WOMEN S SOCCER

I never dreamed that a soccer club for women would be a reality for ENC. We started without a penny. When no one attended the meetings, we almost gave up and decided it wasn't worth all the effort if no one wanted to help. It was hard to see how one or two people were going to get this club started. With perseverance things worked out and soon one or two people became three or four and so on. We've had ups and downs throughout the year but looking back it was worth it because everyone had a lot of fun. At first, when we weren't winning any games it was easy to get down, although it didn't take long to realize winning isn't everything. Not one person quit or gave up. As a result, we all improved not only as players but as people too.

STUDENT ASSOCIATION OF SOCIAL WORKERS

The Student Association of Social Workers is a group of social work majors who are interested in learning more about their future profession. As future social workers we see the need for community involvement. This year we have attempted to inform our ENC community about some of these issues. It is our desire that social work and non-social work majors alike will be inspired to make a difference in their world. All-School Outing

The annual all-school outing was held on Saturday, September 2, at Bradley Field. The day consisted of recreational games such as volleyball, lacrosse, and football. A basketball tournament also took place inside the gym.

Sophomore Jason Darling said, "It was a good opportunity to get to know all the freshmen and give them a nice welcome. Although the event was not as large as it has been in the past (Merrymount park was unavailable for that day), the warm weather and fun activities made the day enjoyable for all who attended.

The Harbor Cruise was wonderful!! There was a sense of excitement even while we were waiting to board the "Spirit of Boston." The weather was perfect, and the food was great! And of course, the Karaoake was as entertaining as ever.

Luke Sheets' singing was also a nice addition to the atmosphere of the cruise. Everything was very well organized and ran smoothly. It was a great evening! Hats off to our Social Life Director!

80s PARTY

Turned-up collars, doubled socks, blue eyeshadow, and lots of hair spray could be seen September 21, 1995 at the Senior class sponsored party. The break dancing contest was a hit, coming down to one guy and one girl, reflective of the girls vs. guys theme carried throughout the evening. Chris Snell and Candy Vanderveer were the finalists. Having seen muscle shirts, oversized sweaters and tapered jeans, the judges voted Lara Rines and Luke Sheets best dressed.

On Tuesday, September 5, Luke Sheets invited family, friends, and the ENC community to a pre-release party in celebration of his debut album "Ex Nihilio." Quincy mayor and Luke's father, James Sheets, comments, "This is a benchmark in his life and perhaps his career." The highlight of the evening was a mini-concert from Luke and members of the ENC Summer ministries team "Rhythms of Grace."

Camping Trip

Anticipating the opportunity to experience a late September weekend in the great outdoors, thirty-nine ENC students ventured north to the Saco river in New Hampshire. Besides paddling over 17 miles, paddlers played beach games and relaxed by the evening campfire.

"There's nothing better than sitting around the campfire with a group of friends," said senior Jon Stewart. "I enjoyed living on the edge until my canoe tipped," said advanced canoer Mark Sicard. Camping enthusiasts Becky Mahood and Lori Shobert were proud to be in the first all-girl canoe to complete the entire stretch of the river.

The camping trip was sponsored by the SGA and was organized by Mark Guyer, recreational rife director.

STREET FAIR

WHERE WERE YOU SATURDAY, OCTOBER 21, 1995?

Wind and rain...one description of the Homecoming Street Fair. Homecoming Day should incorporate a beautiful sun filled sky with the events of the day.

Unfortunately, the sun didn't appear and things don't always go as planned.

Organizations, clubs, and class councils sold various items in the warmth of the gym lobby and Student Center, contributing to the mixed fragrence of coffee and bagels, nachos and cheese, popcorn, and other food. After filling up on a few snacks, some souls braved the wind and rain to head outside to the Alumni craft fair and the grilled foods guarded by oversized tarps. The Sophomores and Juniors filled the air with hamburger, hot dog, and sausage aromas. The Senior class added more water to the wet day with their sponge throwing booth. Attempting to dry off clothing and untangle wet hair, past, present, and future ENCers checked out the last section of the street fair. In the Student Center was a bombardment of musty smelling books being sold by the library. Balloons brightened up the otherwise dreary day, and the Freshman class cheered the atmosphere by painting faces. All in all, despite the rain, the Street Fair was a success and both young and old, enjoyed themselves immensely!

Homecoming King
Joe Delgado

When I sat down to try to write my thoughts and reflections on what it meant for me to be crowned King this year, I quickly remembered that I do not possess the gift of the pen. With that in mind, humor me while I do my best. (if you'd rather not, then just smile at me and say, "Boy, what a swell... tux you've got on!")

Homecoming weekend was certainly one of the highlights of not only my senior year, but also my entire collegiate experience here at E.N.C. I can remember so many things happening: the honor of being elected onto the court; the big game; blowing my lungs out at the show; feeling very nervous as the court lined up in the multi-purpose room; praying that I wouldn't trip going over the bridge on stage; then almost escorting my partner Becky Mahood to the wrong chair (smooth, very smooth). These were some of the many aspects of that weekend that made it so memorable, but the highlight of the entire weekend was definitely when Eric announced that I had won. Or maybe it was when he gave me that kiss on the cheek after he crowned me. I'm not sure. In any case, I also remember feeling an overwhelming sense of gratitude, honor, and, if I may, pride. The look on my mother and father's face was one that I cannot even begin to describe to you. After the ceremonies, my mother walked up to me crying, hugged me, and told me how proud of me she was while my dad was capturing that Kodak moment with his new camcorder so he could mail it to my family and friends back in Portugal.

Homecoming for me this year was not so much a display of popularity, but more of a memorable piece fitting perfectly to form an unforgettable puzzle called, "My College Experience." And I thank God because it has truly been one to remember.

Tullers: Reflections on Homecoming

Hey-- the Homecoming Queen is supposed to be like Miss America or something, right? -- a straight-A student, knows exactly what she'd do if she were President of the United States, looks great in evening wear and a bathing suit, and can play Bach on spoons? Hmm...very impressive, but I don't think this is the criteria for a Homecoming Queen at ENC.

I think that the people who represent their class on the Homecoming court should simply be the kind of people who give away 'colors' to those around them-- colors like joy, humor, understanding, care, and attention. When I was at Windsor Hills camp a couple years ago, a four-year old boy came up to me and asked me if I wanted a "tuller". I said, "A what?" and he said, "A tuller!" (But what he really meant was, "a tuller, stupid"). Out of his little cupped hands he took a single piece of paper that had the stripes of various colored scribbles. I said that I would love a color, so he carefully instructed me to tear off an orange scribble. I still have it. For some reason it just seemed neat to me that he had made this little creation and now he just wanted to go out and give away his colors. (And I thought it was funny that he said 'tuller' instead of 'color').

I've always been taught that all people are equals, that every person deserves to be respected and heard, and that every person has value. Really living this is one way that I have tried to give away 'colors.' It was an honor to be elected Homecoming Queen-- I feel like somehow it says that I've been successful in adding a little color to the lives of those around me and I am grateful for this honor.

Let it Snow

If there was one universal memory of the 1995-96 school year, it would be the record-breaking snow fall that plummeted the Boston area. Staring in mid-December and lasting until Spring Break, snowfall was the recurring theme of the season with a total snowfall of over 100 inches. What made the winter bearable was the fact that each storm's snow melted before the next could arrive. The snowfall represented on the right which totaled over 40 inches melted in a matter of four days.

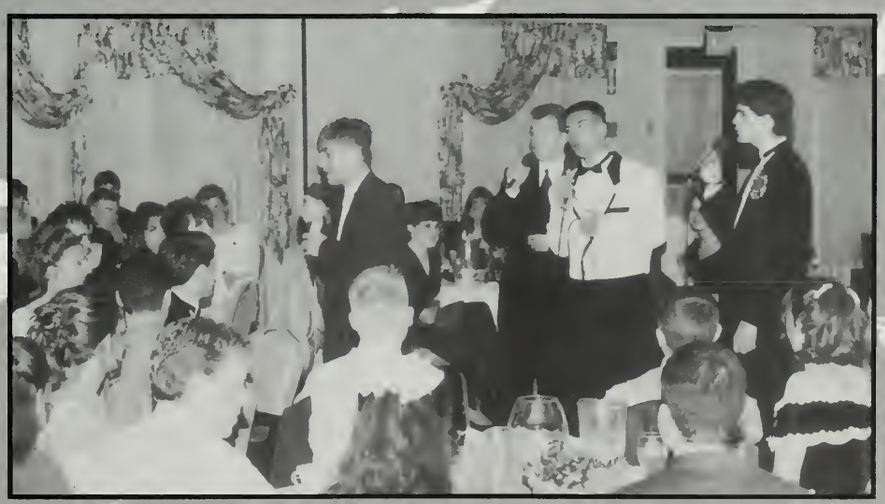
Junior-Senior

On May 3, 1996 two hundred and twenty-seven students and faculty members gathered at the Casa di Fior in Wilmington to honor of the class of 1996. The City of Presidents string Quartet provide dinner music. Entertainment was provided by the men's quartet - Redeemed, comedian - Brian Gordon, senior soloist Dorothy Buhl, and Corey MacPherson & Leigh Killberg with the Senior superlatives. The evening was concluded with a Slide show by David Bennett which recaped many memories of the past four years.



The fever spread quickly across the campus of ENC. Spring Fever weekend began with the annual Lip Sync, the best of any seen so far.

The Student Center auditorium was packed and ready to go with the show's first act "The way you make me feel." "The Junkyard Gang" made a special appearance for the students and even tossed some pudding into the audience.

Although every act was amusing, there always has to be a winner. Brian Davis and Chris Snell stole the show with "She's Like the Wind." The crowd was forced to their feet in response to this gut-busting act.

BEC JENKINS

The pre-release party for Bec Jenkins' tape "The Presence of You" was held on Wednesday, May 15, 1996. Family, friends, and fellow students came to support her debut album.

Kelly Allen and Scott Madden duke it out in the ring!

Spring Fever Weekend was great. I laughed at the lip sync on Friday night, and the play on Saturday night. I must say I was a little disappointed with the weather on Saturday, but everyone was able to get outside and have fun for a few hours before it started raining. I tried the boxing scene this year for the first time. Tonia boxed with me and neither of us knew how so we didn't get very far. I also tried the Rocky Mountain and felt like an American Gladiator. Mud Wrestling was interesting as usual. All in all it was a great weekend. And, the end of one more year here at ENC.

"God is sovereign over human events. Yet it is men and women, under his jurisdiction, who write pages of history through the sum of their choices. We never know what minor act of hopeless courage, what words spoken in defense of truth, what unintended consequence might swing the balance and change the world."

"MAY THE GOD OF HOPE FILL YOU WITH ALL JOY AND PEACE AS YOU TRUST IN HIM, SO THAT YOU MAY OVERFLOW WITH HOPE BY THE POWER OF THE HOLY SPIRIT."

ROMANS 15:13

Becky,

In the face of so many obstacles, you rose above such difficult situations to become a great success. Words cannot express how proud we are of you and of what you have accomplished. You have grown into a beautiful woman of God, one that your father would be honored to call his daughter. Know that whatever your future may hold, the Lord and "Papi" will always be guiding you from heaven.

We love you,

Mom, "Dad" and Jeannie Crespo

Congratulations Becky!

You have come a long way and
His faithfulness has helped you through.
Remember Nehemiah 8:10
"Go your way... for the joy of the Lord is your strength."
May He continue to bless you in your life!
We're very proud of you!

Love,
The Martinez family

Congratulations Amy!

Love,
Dad, Mom, & Steve

Congratulations

Matt and Robin — have a terrific future!

"Rejoice in the Lord always. I will say it again: Rejoice! Let your gentleness be evident to all. The Lord is near. Do not be anxious about anything, but in everything, by prayer and petition, with thanksgiving, present your requests to God. And the peace of God, which transcends all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus."

Phil. 4:4-7

We love you,
Mom, Dad, and Amy

THIS IS A SHOUT OUT LOUD FROM YOUR MAIN MAN RORI WISHING THE CLASS OF 1996 ALL THE BEST! I LOVE YOU GUYS!

May 30, 1996

Once again, it's the end of May and time to reflect on a year that has been so full of wonderful experiences and the opportunity to design another yearbook. One would think that the second time around would go smoother, but the opposite was true as less one half of the book was complete before exams. I am however happy to say that the amount of time spent on design for the 1996 edition was almost double and the book should be a reflection of diligent work of the section editors and all others who contributed to the book's content and design.

Thanks is not enough to say to this year's staff. I was overwhelmed with joy when I realized that I would have to double up the section editors because there weren't enough sections to be designed. Because the interest in section design was so high this year, I am confident to leave many competent editors for next year. And now the thank-you's:

To Maria, thanks for giving your talents to Nautilus. Your commitment to the book is to be applauded and this will enable you to do a great job next year. I have utmost confidence in your ability to succeed in this position! To Gregg, $6,000.00 was raised and you are to be thanked. It has been fun working with you, even though we spent a little too much time together while designing the ad section. To Amy, thanks for picking up where I hadn't finished and for diligent work on the finances this year. To Melissa, thanks for your responsible attitude that makes it so easy to work with you. To Jeff and Sarah, thanks for your inspiring spirit towards photography, without you guys there would be no funny pictures that truly do tell a thousand words. To Barb and Sara, thanks so much for your pleasant spirit and your creativity that is evident in the Underclass section. To Kelly, thanks for your drive to work hard when the deadline needed to be met. To Jenn, thanks for your commitment to the book and for modeling a great attitude to the rest of the staff. To Heather S., thanks for your boisterous spirit that has encouraged me this year. Thanks for being patient with me when I got picky. To Heather O. and Melissa, thank you for designing one of the best Clubs and Organizations sections in the last five years. It is the most complete and is very creative and both of you contributed to those aspects. To Erin and Amanda, thanks for faithfully completing your section and for putting up with my indecsisiveness towards what actually went into your section.

It is sad to think that my time here at ENC is over. But I hope that my position as Nautilus editor has enabled me to leave my mark and spur on the classes to come to create solid, well designed yearbooks. Being editor is no small job, but it has been a wonderful experience for me personally and professionally. Thanks to all who have participated in this venture!

In His Service,

David Bennett
